Don't let the times fool you, we have been expecting a course correction since the sixty's. At least it's not a war between the humans again. Definitely, "a change is a comin' !" Mr. Dylan!

Let's focus on the GOOD news first: the planet and it's environment is definitely benefiting from this virus; the oceans, the forests, the surface waters, the AIR. Do we really need to travel about in our SUVs as much?? Do we need to jet around the globe to such a degree as what we used to call 'normal'? Should we rather spend more time at home, with family, some neighbors, outdoors???? How contagious are the forests that we walk through, the rivers and creeks that we gaze at and listen to? Please let us catch more of that vibe!

Yay Bernie! One of a very few politicians who actually cares, loves and takes action.

It is too bad he had to drop out of the presidential race but while he was in, he was creating a significant movement; for everybody being a human being... with human rights! It will go on if we don't go back to sleep.

More GOOD news: The canals in Venice are clear and you can see to the bottom! The pics I am seeing of L.A. air are; clean and clear, we imagine those folks could use a breath of fresh air.

Lots of people being very nice to each other and respecting each others' space.

OK now where did this come from, the so called corona virus???

Lots of theories, but let's not go there. Instead let's get out of the 'normal' box that has many hypnotized, feel the change? YES, there is a LOT happening right now that changes frequencies and consciousness. So, what can we do individually? Our actions often speak louder than words; be nice, fun and helpful. It is a shift in priorities; what is really important, health, family, friends or wealth? Enough said there, don't want to get negative, very important right now.

BUT is it possible the planet herself is responding to our treatment by creating something that gets our intention??? Whether or not it was created by man, it doesn't matter, whatever, whoever 'they' are... part of the Natural process of planet Earth, for the sake of the children, let's get it right, NOW!

First time in a long while where everyone is affected, collectively. There is not one person today that has not been exposed to the fact of, "...hey anyone home?... Are we the caretakers of the planet and its inhabitants???" Does not look like it so far. We are like those guests that leave things messy. Trash all over the place. I would say it was our original intention to take care of our mother EARTH, but we have slipped a bit. Wouldn't you agree? How about the animals in our kingdom, they go about their work as normal; they are not affected by so much disease or economic turn down, they move on, even when the food gets scarce or the wolves get too close. This so called disaster of corona has its bullseye on the human race. It does not have an effect on anyone or anything else!

What is Natural (it ALL is when you get right down to it) it is what we created and we should take responsibility for. So here we go, what we ALL do from here on is totally up to us individually.

Be safe, with a Heart that cares!!!
